22.06.2012 12:20

Instructions
Dig a hole 45cm (18in) deep and 30cm (12in) wide. Place the plant in the hole making sure the top of the root ball is 5cm (2in) below the soil level. Backfill with a mix of compost and general fertilizer with top soil and water well.
Remove the pot, stand the plant in the hole making sure the top of the root ball is 5cm (2in) below the soil level. Backfill with a mix of compost and general fertilizer with top soil and water well.
Put the remaining soil around the root ball, firming down to avoid air spaces. Do not allow the plant to dry out for at least the first growing season.
Clematis like their roots shaded, place other sheltered plants such as annuals or perennials to achieve this.
